using our name to your advantage

An Interlink Express franchise is a contract to provide and sell our service in a certain area for a nominated time period. It gives you the support of a large, successful company with a trusted name and reputation, while allowing you the autonomy to run the business as your own. In this way, the franchise holder takes responsibility for the business and enjoys the rewards. With the back-up of an established company like Interlink Express, the risks are minimised and the opportunities enhanced.

Offering a better business proposition

As a leader in the franchising and parcel deliveries industries, Interlink Express provides you with a proven business format and comprehensive support package:

- Interlink Express is a full member of the British Franchise Association (BFA), established to monitor franchisors and provide support to members.
- Because Interlink Express raises and collects all invoices relating to packages sent through the system, you will not be responsible for customer debts.
- Interlink Express provides comprehensive on-going assistance and advice on all areas of your business, including commercial and operational best practice.
- A regular and constantly updated training programme is provided.
- Regular meetings enable you to keep in contact with other franchise holders.
- On-going business development advice.
- Interlink Express constantly monitors marketing and business trends in order to keep you informed of relevant developments within the industry.
- Taking over an established franchise with proven systems reduces the risks associated with starting a new business.
- Interlink Express provides a comprehensive induction and training programme, essential before you take over a franchise.
- You are paid monthly for the collections and deliveries you make, enabling you to plan and control your cash flow.

success

// I joined Interlink Express in 1984 as an agent operating the Market Harborough franchise. Two years later I bought the business and became the youngest Interlink Express franchisee ever. Today, I own a second franchise, have merged the depots and control a business which employs 23 people and has a turnover of nearly £700,000. Without the expertise and reassurance gained from having Interlink Express behind me, and the support, experience and encouragement offered by my fellow franchises, this would not have been possible. //

Nick Metaxas, Interlink Express franchisee, Northants.

reasons for our success

Because we provide the highest level of service and value for money, in conjunction with unmatched local knowledge, Interlink Express is rated No. 1 for overall quality of service and customer satisfaction within the parcels and courier industry.*

This consistently high level of success can only be maintained through enthusiastic, business-orientated franchise holders who share our beliefs – and by doing so, you too can share our success:

- Providing outstanding customer service.
- Providing value for money across the range of services.
- Maintaining a professional approach in all business aspects.
- Participating in continued training and development courses.
- Maintaining a strong corporate identity.
- Combining the most up-to-date and proven technology with a strong personal communication – with our customers and within Interlink Express.
- Maintaining continual investment to stay at the forefront of the parcels business, including the development of a £15m new hub and an investment of £5m on new IT infrastructure.

investment and return

Initial investment varies but is usually between £100,000 and £500,000 and covers an initial franchise agreement period of 10 years, which after that time, can be increased in five years terms. Profit from the business should allow you to repay this within the term while still providing you with a good income – effectively leaving you to build up the business and enjoy the future rewards.

Return on investment is dictated by the size of business purchased. Information regarding turnover of Interlink Express collection and delivery activity for the area is provided by the Franchisor. Accounts detailing net profit will be available through the Vendor.

Purchase of existing areas

Because Interlink Express has a fully established network of franchises, the only way to become a franchise holder is by purchasing an existing franchise.

Funding assistance

Although Interlink Express do not provide financial support for the purchase of a franchise, we do have relationships with the leading banks and will facilitate contact if required. They will inspect your business plans and may help you to raise the funds you require.

Franchise fee

To take on a Franchise Agreement with Interlink Express, you will be required to pay a Franchise Fee of £15,000 + VAT. This charge is non-returnable and covers:

- Completion and maintenance of the franchise agreement over the initial term.
- Induction training, including accommodation and food.
- Initial 12 months' contribution to accountancy fees (up to £2,500) with our nominated auditors, who must be used. They will provide you with:
 - Monthly management accounts.
 - Quarterly VAT returns.
 - Annual accounts.
 - PAYE can also be provided at a very reasonable rate.
 - Vehicle insurance and fuel card schemes to ensure you benefit from our buying power.

induction and training

Our continued success is due largely to our commitment to developing our business skills through a full and comprehensive induction course and regular training programmes. Run either by Interlink Express, our parent company GeoPost, or contracted outside consultants, it is an essential part of the process of becoming an Interlink Express franchise holder, and is designed to give you in-depth knowledge of all areas of the business.

Induction programmes for new franchise holders

Depending on the area being purchased and the relevant experience of the purchaser, induction programmes usually last a minimum of four weeks, and are designed to introduce new franchise holders to all relevant areas of the business. As well as gaining an understanding of the role of each department within the company, you will also be introduced to the people who may later assist you in the running of your business.

Part of the induction programme involves spending a week at the Interlink Express head office and the central sorting hub, two weeks at a training depot and a further week at the depot being purchased, in order to develop an understanding of how it all works. You will also spend time with members of the Interlink Express team to ensure you are competent in key areas including sales and operations.

The induction programme is comprehensive and covers the following subjects:

Customer services	Operations
Credit control and billing	Business development
Marketing	Depot modelling
Franchising	Sales
Quality ISO 9001:2000	Health & safety
Product knowledge	Account Management
Staff training	Procedures
IT	Human resources
Hub and linehaul	Security

Assessment

During your induction programme there will be a comprehensive assessment to ensure that we are as happy as you are to continue with preparations for taking over a franchise. This will give both parties useful feedback and we are always ready to listen to your comments and queries.

On-going training for franchise holders

Training and development is an on-going process which does not stop when you take over a franchise. We are committed to keeping you informed of any new developments in the above categories.

Training your staff

It is not just the franchise holder who will require training – staff also have a responsibility to maintain our high standards. Because of this we require the franchisee to attend our 'On the job training – train the trainer' course which teaches you how to instruct your staff members in key areas of the business.

“ Having reviewed a number of franchise opportunities within various markets, I found the Interlink Express proposition to be the most exciting. This was driven by Interlink's position as a member of the big four European service providers, the unmatched level of assistance and commitment the company offers its franchisees, its reputation within the market place and the significant investment made in its hub and sortation centre, one of the most technically advanced in Europe. Since becoming a franchisee, the support I have received has been overwhelming – ensuring that my business is an outstanding success. ”

Simon Hawtrey-Coombs, Interlink Express franchisee, Bournemouth.
